Communication Express Database User React User creates a chat between members User types a message in chat Data from socket is sent through to logic layer Chat logs sent through socket are stored in database Chat logs are received from the database Front end displays chat to a user